What would you change about yourself: I'm very content with my life now. Wish my second husband had been my first and only, but I wouldn't trade my two sons for anything. Life isn't always perfect, but I have a real peace in my heart that nothing could take from me. Having God in my life has made the difference for me.

What surprised you 50 years after graduation: Make that 49 years. When I met some of my classmates at Woody's for lunch last year, I was so thrilled with the reception I received. It was so good being together and knowing that we shared something in common. Being "Berkley Bears from the class of 1956" and what we shared in common was that even though that we didn't hang together through our school years, we had a friendship that was very special and has lasted all these years. I'm really looking forward to our 50th reunion.

What would you have liked to have invented: I don't really know. When you think of all that has taken place in our life time, all the changes that have taken place, all the so called improvements. Have they really made our lives better? In a lot of ways, I wish we could go back to the "olden days," but man has gone to the moon and I've had the privilege of meeting and talking to Jim Irvin (on a few occasions) from Apollo 15 the man who drove the moon buggy. Living down here in Florida, we've gone to watch the the space ships go up and even seen them from across the state as they've streaked through the clouds. We've been shaken out of our bed when the shuttle broke the sound barrier on its way home.

What would I like to have invented? A way that kids could be kids and not have to grow up so fast as some of our inventions have made them do.
